Robinson Mill Road Bridge Reopened April 30, 2020

BEL AIR, Md., (May 1, 2020) - Robinson Mill Road Bridge over Broad Creek was reopened to traffic on April 30, 2020. The bridge had been closed since March 2017 due to the structural degradation of the steel support beams and corrugated metal bridge deck. Design of a replacement bridge had been completed several years ago, but construction was delayed until the county was able to obtain a necessary right-of-way. Construction began last summer for the replacement bridge consisting of a 53-foot-long single span with a concrete deck supported by concrete beams placed on concrete abutments.

Harford County Department of Public Works, Highways Division appreciates everyone's patience during this extended but necessary project for public safety.
